Conference objective

Climate change is widely accepted to be the greatest environmental challenge facing the world today. In a recent speech Gordon Brown pledged to put the UK at the forefront of the fight against climate change and stressed the importance of building a global low carbon economy.

The Climate Change Bill – the world's first national statutory framework for cutting carbon dioxide emissions – can be seen as firing the starting gun for a low carbon future. The Government is already taking forward a wide range of policies, impacting on all sectors of the economy, to achieve the targets in the Bill.

It is vital that all companies understand these policies and the impact they will have on their business.

The Environmental Industries Commission has, therefore, brought together a unique line up of the top policy makers, regulators and business leaders to analyse the Government's climate change policy and how business strategies need to adapt to succeed in a low carbon economy.

"Our mission is, in truth, historic and world changing - to build, over the next fifty years and beyond, a global low carbon economy."

Rt Hon Gordon Brown MP
Prime Minister

About EIC

The Environmental Industries Commission (EIC) is the lead association promoting and supporting the development of a strong, competitive UK environmental technology and services industry with a sound home market from which to compete successfully world-wide. It represents over 330 companies providing environmental solutions.

EIC provides a vital voice for the industry with policymakers in Westminster, Whitehall and Brussels. Through its innovative Working Groups, the EIC actively promotes a supportive legislative and fiscal framework that emphasises cost effective policies, coherent standards and practical solutions.

"The EIC has been a tireless advocate for your industry through a period of rapid growth over the last few years. With EIC's leadership, your reputation as a lynchpin of a sustainable UK economy can only continue to grow."
Malcolm Wicks MP, Energy Minister

"EIC plays an extremely important role putting forward a forward looking approach on the environment - it is one of the most effective lobby groups in the country and is listened to by everyone in power"
Sir John Harman, Chairman of the Environment Agency
