Focused briefing sessions

Redeveloping brownfield sites is top of the Government's agenda. Yet complicated and inappropriate regulations have hamstrung the assessment and clean up of these sites across the country.

The Environmental Industries Commission is lobbying hard with Government to overcome these barriers. These essential briefing sessions will draw on this expertise and feature leading experts from Government and industry to provide advance warning policy intelligence, definitive current status reports and clear guidance on:

- The latest developments in the complex process of licensing land clean-up – and plans for further change
- The implications of new Environment Agency guidance on definition of waste and brownfield sites
- The implications of the new EU Waste Directive for land clean-up
- The dramatic changes to land clean-up being driven by the Landfill Directive
- The framework for assessing land remediation set by CLEA and SGVs
- The national brownfield strategy and regional brownfield developments
- The latest developments in the property tax regime in the budget – and their impacts on brownfield regeneration

About EIC

The Environmental Industries Commission (EIC) is the lead association promoting and supporting the development of a strong, competitive UK environmental technology and services industry with a sound home market from which to compete successfully world-wide. It represents over 290 companies providing environmental solutions.

EIC provides a vital voice for the industry with policymakers in Westminster, Whitehall and Brussels. Through its innovative Working Groups, the EIC actively promotes a supportive legislative and fiscal framework that emphasises cost effective policies, coherent standards and practical solutions.

"The Environmental industry is vital and very much part of our industrial future... EIC is an active and effective champion of the environmental technology and services sector."

Rt Hon Margaret Beckett MP, Secretary of State for the Environment

"EIC plays an extremely important role putting forward a forward looking approach on the environment - it is one of the most effective lobby groups in the country and is listened to by everyone in power."

Sir John Harman, Chairman of the Environment Agency
